Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter that was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. In claim 1, the phrase "a third rotating element connected to the motor" renders the planetary gearing nonfunctional, since if both the second and the third rotating element were connected to the motor, the gearing would be locked up. Applicant cannot use the term "connected" to mean one thing in regards to one aspect of the claimed invention, and mean something else for another aspect of the claimed invention. Applicant must be consistent in his terminology.

Allowable Subject Matter

The subject matter of claim 1 is allowable over the prior art of record. The prior art does not anticipate nor render obvious the invention of a transmission wherein a first element is connected to an engine, a second element is connected to a motor, and wherein a primary clutch selectively connects the second element to an output shaft, a secondary clutch selectively connects a third element to an output shaft, a primary brake selectively stops rotation of a third element, and a secondary brake selectively stops a second element.

Art Unit: 3681

Prior Art Discussed

The examiner has considered the references cited by applicant in his Information Disclosure Statement filed December 23, 2003. None of the references show all of the claimed features of the invention.

The references cited by the examiner are deemed pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Neither of the references shows a brake for a carrier of the transmission.
